Hello, my name is Daniel. Today, I would like to talk about my skills, my grandparents' life in the past, and an important person from Turkish history.

I enjoy learning new things, and I am good at computer skills. When I was a child, I could draw very well, but I couldn't play a musical instrument. Now, I want to learn how to play chess because it helps me think more carefully.

My grandparents had a very different life. A few decades ago, there was no electricity in their village, so they used to use candles at night. People used to wash their clothes in rivers, and children helped their families instead of spending time on technology. While my grandfather was working in the fields, my grandmother was taking care of the house and animals.

My grandfather often tells me about our ancestors. Before they founded the Republic of Türkiye, they had led the Turkish nation during the Independence War. After the war ended, they introduced many reforms in education and social life.
